

Amy Dieterich, MSc
Policy Officer
Parliamentary Network on the World Bank

Amy Dieterich joins the PNOWB secretariat as the network's Policy Officer. She is a public health specialist with a focus on policy change and improving health systems in developing countries.

Amy comes to PNOWB after nine years in the NGO sector based in secretariats in Washington, London and Paris with frequent missions to Africa, Asia and Latin America. Originally a biologist, Amy later pursued health and development studies at the London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine. Her recent projects include adapting the Paris Declaration principles to Community-Based Organizations (CBOs) and NGOs; empowering young adults in West Africa to access reproductive health services and protect themselves from HIV; and increasing health service sustainability through improved government-NGO-CBO relations and engagement.

In her PNOWB Policy Officer role, Amy will initially focus on the relationships between International Financial Institutions and the parliamentary community, the role of parliaments in the mobilization of resources for development in donor countries, especially the IDA 16 replenishment, and the promotion of transparency, accountability and parliamentary oversight on development in low and middle income countries. Amy reports to Jerome Evrard, Head of Secretariat, and is based in Paris, France.
